CLEVER ESCAPE OF MRS. MORRIS.

Mrs. Laura Hall Morris, wife of Dr. Minor Morris, whose expulsion from the White House on January 4, 1906, caused a national sensation, yesterday left the secluded retreat in the hills of New Jersey where she has been in hiding part of the time since her escape last July from the Missouri State Insane Asylum, at Farmington, Mo. She passed through New York early Saturday night on her way to Washington, where she has engaged rooms at the Ebbitt House.

Before leaving Gladstone, N. J., Mrs. Morris told for the first time the story of her sensational escape from the Farmington asylum. As told by Mrs. Morris her adventures rank with those related by the masters of dramatic fiction. In the disguise of a negro "mammy" she slipped past the asylum guards and walked for miles through unfamiliar woods at the dead of night.

So effective was her disguise that her own son, whom she encountered on the platform of the railroad station in St. Louis, did not recognize her and she kept up the character until she reached Albany, N. Y., where friends who had supplied the funds for her escape were awaiting her.

"I was trapped into the asylum," said Mrs. Morris, "and I escaped through the kindness of one of the attendants, Miss Pinkston, who recognized the fact that I was perfectly sane and aided me in every possible way. Miss Pinkston not only helped me to escape, but she concealed the fact of my departure for several days, and when discovery was inevitable arranged a clever device which satisfied the asylum authorities that I had got away unaided. Having covered my tracks and her own, she then resigned from the asylum staff.

"The first public information that I had escaped from Farmington was made public on July 14 of this year. It was stated that I had left during the preceding night by loosening a bar of my cell and sliding down a rope made of towels tied together. That was what the asylum authorities believed.

"As a matter of fact I got away on the night of July 9 and, instead of sliding down a towel rope I walked out of the front door and past the guards, who had no idea I was an escaping patient, but thought I was an aged negress who frequently visited some of the servants at the place.

"In order to carry out the impression that I had gone by way of the window, Miss Pinkston scattered some of my clothes near the window and tore pieces off a feather that was in the hat I had worn to the asylum and sprinkled them on the ground outside. The hat itself she burned.

"On the last day of August, 1907, I left St. Louis, where I had been visiting my sons, Locke and Wilbur, I went to Hopkins, a suburb of Minneapolis, where my husband and his brother Homer had an office. No one met me at the station and when I found my husband he informed me there was no place for me there. My brother-in-law forbade me to enter the office again and refused to have my trunk brought up from the station.

"I remained in Hopkins 11 days. Then my son Locke wrote to his father: 'If mamma can't stay there, send her back here.' My husband ordered me back to St. Louis at once. He bought a ticket and put me on the train. His last words were: 'God bless and preserve you!'

"At St. Louis my sons met me. They suggested that we go for a drive. I wondered at their extravagance, but got into the carriage with them. There was a strange-looking man on the box with the driver. I asked who he was and was told he was a friend of the driver. We drove at once to the police station. I asked what we were stopping there for and Locke replied:

'We are going to have your sanity inquired into.'

"I gasped, and in a low voice—for I saw at once the danger of any show of excitement or emotion—exclaimed:

'My children, my children, have I brought you into the world for this?'

"In the meantime men came out of the station, talking in low tones, and I slipped out of the carriage, and walked quickly toward Olive street, hoping to get on a street car and escape. But before I could go far I was seized by a man who had sat on the seat with the driver and was thrust violently back into the carriage. My children had exposed me to this frightful humiliation. "I put my head out of the window, hoping for a rescue. I cried out: 'Help! Help! They are trying to make me insane. I am not!' I shouted my name. No help came. It was the only time in all my bitter experience that I gave way to a momentary impulse to cry for help, for I knew the grave danger that lay in any show of excitement.

"At the police station some papers were made out after a few random questions by a young physician, in which he sought to force the trend toward the White House incident, but with small success. It was a travesty. I protested, but to no purpose.

"We re-entered the carriage, and my son tried to persuade me to go quietly to St. Vincent's Insane Asylum, where, he said, I could have a beautiful room with a piano. I refused the offer, but saw resistance was useless and I was taken to the St. Louis City Hospital and placed in cell No. 4 in the insane section. I was surrounded by shrieking and howling lunatics.

"I had been placed in a straight-jacket in St. Louis. At Farmington I was subjected to worse torture—I was placed in solitary confinement and kept there for eleven days. My husband, who had written to the superintendent that I was not insane, was informed of this brutal treatment. Newspapers at that time printed the statement that I was hopelessly insane. I have evidence, from within the asylum, which I will produce at the proper time, that I was fraudulently detained there and at no time needed or received treatment of any kind.

"Three months after I had been sent to Farmington I was secretly placed on trial, behind closed doors, without counsel or witnesses. I was then formally committed and remained for seven months more.

"My escape was due to the wisdom and kindness of Miss Pinkston, who was the head of the infirmary department. She was convinced of my sanity and, knowing that I was in for life unless I could escape, had herself made my personal attendant. She accepted great risks to aid me."

Saturday Mrs. Morris received $30 from her son, who has been sending her $60 a month since her escape, and immediately decided to go to Washington.

THE beautiful colored leaves, tinted in the many shades of the rainbow, remind us that the fall season is on us with its warm days and bracing and cool evenings.

It is the delight of one to view nature in her evolution and be a participant in her bountiful resources and health-giving virtues.

But we would be recreant to the trust reposed in us and derelict in our duty if we failed to remind you that there are other things which approach nature to such a degree in their health-restoring qualities; and, keeping this fact in mind, would be pleased to call your attention to our liquors—the superior of which no human eye has discerned or hand or brain manufactured.

MONDAY EVENING, SEPT. 21, 1908.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S persistence in attempting to foist Mr. Taft upon the people of this country nolens volens is becoming offensive and an insult to the intelligence of voters in both the democratic and republican parties. The latest exhibition of his effrontery is his letter to Wm. B. McKinley, chairman of the republican congressional committee, in which he appeals to disinterested citizens to join with the national republican committee and the congressional committee in a movement to elect Wm. H. Taft as president and a republican congress to support him. The president declares that Mr. Taft and the republican candidates for congress seek election on a platform which specifically pledges the party to continue and develop the policies which have been acted upon for seven years past. Among other things Mr. Roosevelt says:

It is urgently necessary, from the standpoint of the public interest, to elect Mr. Taft, and a republican congress which will support him; and they seek election on a platform which specifically pledges the party, alike in its executive and legislative branches, to continue and develop the policies which have been not merely professed, but acted upon during these seven years. To fail to elect Mr. Taft would be a calamity to the country.

It seems that among Mr. Roosevelt's weak points is the assumption of infallibility. He is vain enough to suppose that the salvation of the nation depends upon the perpetuation of policies he has conceived. His appeals to the people to elect Taft are making him cheap in the eyes of all.

LAST week was Bryan's week in the east, and as the veteran campaigner swept across Ohio and West Virginia and was greeted by huge audiences of his admirers in the populous cities of Baltimore, Wilmington, Philadelphia, New York and smaller intermediate points he appeared to fairly exude confidence with his expansive smile and aggressive attack on the enemy's positions. He displayed his customary cleverness at repartee in the press interview duel with Mr. Taft. Mr. Bryan had the satisfaction of seeing the New York state convention of his party name unanimously Chanler for governor. Later he charged the steel trust with having obtained immunity by financing the republican campaign this year.

THE Indianapolis Star, the state organ of the republican party, in an editorial virtually concedes Indiana to the democrats. Commenting on the result of the special elections held on Thursday to fill vacancies in the legislature, it says: "All of the elements tending toward democratic gains were out in full force in the contests, which brought the republican plurality in Delaware county down from 2,334 to 272, and in one district supplanted a republican by a democrat. If these two elections are trustworthy indices of the state at large, Indiana will elect Marshall as its governor and a democratic legislature to choose the successor to Senator Hemenway.

WITH the nomination of a strong state ticket and a united party Delaware democracy is preparing for the liveliest political campaign that the state has witnessed for years. Judging by the immense outpouring at the Bryan meetings, both at Harrington and in Wilmington, and the large gathering at the ratification meeting at Brandywine Springs Park, the democrats are aroused as they have not been for years. At the state convention more democratic lawyers, young and old, were present than ever before, and the democratic spellbinders will be turned loose in all parts of the state. Democracy feels sure of Delaware.

SENATOR FORAKER is down and out. His elimination from the republican national campaign is complete. To permit him to appear upon the national stump would be suicidal for the republican party, in view of the revelations as to his connection with the Standard Oil, and Mr. Foraker, realizing this, has voluntarily eliminated himself in letters just made public.

From Washington.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]

Washington, Sept. 21.

Dissatisfaction with the management of the republican campaign is responsible for the disposition of Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock and the substitution of Senator Murray L. Crane, as the real leader of the republican forces. Hitchcock will remain nominally chairman of the national committee, and his organization will remain intact, but the guidance of the campaign will hereafter be in the hands of the older and more experienced politicans on the advisory committee. The decision that there must be a change in the management of the campaign was reached at the meeting of the advisory committee, which was held at the national headquarters in New York on the 10th. instant. It was the first meeting of this committee, despite the fact that it had been organized several weeks earlier, for the express purpose of advising with the chairman, as to the conduct of the fight. Tired of waiting for Mr. Hitchcock to call them in consultation and becoming alarmed at the unsatisfactory condition of the parts but the apparent indifference and apathy which had marked the republican campaign up to that time, its members arranged for a conference on their own responsibility. Then ensued a review of the whole situation, the result of of which greatly disturbed the practical politicans in the party. They were unsparing in their criticism of the chairman and the upshot of the matter was that Mr. Hitchcock there and then offered to resign. This proposition was rejected at once, because it was recognized that it would be a tactical blunder at this stage. It was from that meeting, however, that has grown the determination to put practical men in charge for the balance of the campaign.

A noteworthy group of speakers will to night participate in the opening of the exhibits of the International Tuberculosis Congress, the formal sessions of which will be held next week. It will be "Municipal and Government Day" and Secretary Straus, Secretary Wright, Governor Swanson, of Virginia; Governor Crothers, of Maryland, and District Commissioner Macfarland, together with former Surgeon General Sternberg, will make addresses. The exhibits form the most comprehensive display of what means the great nations of the world are taking to war against tuberculosis, that has ever been assembled. More than a million lives is the annual world toll of the scourge, and the exhibits here are intended as an educational adjunct to the congress itself, that preventive measures and the proper care of those stricken with the dread disease may be brought to the attention of the public. The formal opening of the congress, at which Secretary Cortelyou will preside, will occur next Monday. On October 2, President Roosevelt will receive the delegates at the White House.

Seldom has a government official handed out to his subordinates so severe an excoriation as that delivered today by Comptroller of the Currency Murray at a conference with the national bank examiners stationed at points east of the Mississippi river, who had been called together here for the purpose of instituting reforms in the service. "I say to you emphatically," declared the comptroller, in opening the meeting, "that your work must be improved. Embezzlements have failed of discovery; defalcations and dishonesty have been concealed from you and in many cases you have failed to correctly, or even approximately, estimate the value of the paper and securities held by the bank. There is too much disposition on the part of examiners to increase their compensation at the expense of the thoroughness and reliability of their work."

Spick and span, with a new coat of paint inside and out and the roof artistically tinted a natural green color, the White House awaits the arrival of President Roosevelt and the presidential family from Oyster Bay tomorrow. The fall housecleaning has been in progress since early in the summer. It is considered likely that a special cabinet meeting will be called for Wednesday, although not all of the department heads have returned to town.

Arriving ship masters at Norfolk report that a dense haze envelops the southern coast from Cape Henry to Florida. So dense is the haze that the sun is often obscured. Experienced mariners pronounce it the thickest and most extensive haze they have observed on that coast for many years. They think it has been created by smoke blown out to sea from forest fires. This haze is observable from Cape Henry and Virginia Beach.

A movement has been started in Richmond to induce George B. Davis, superintendent of the City Home, to withdraw his resignation, which followed the death of an infant from poison some weeks ago. The engine turned over, crushing the life out of the engineer, who shut off steam and applied the emergency brakes before the engine toppled over upon him. The passengers were badly shaken up. Only the engine and baggage car left the rails.

Plans are being prepared by S. E. Pace, architect, of Covington, for a modern hotel to be built at the famous old health resort of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Rooms will be arranged in suites of private parlor, chamber and bath. The lobby will be 100 feet long, with two rows of large Corinthian colums and paneled ceilings finished in pure white. The hotel will be known as the Palace Hotel.

The most cordial feelings of friendship formed the keynote of the visit of Gov. Stuart and the Pennsylvanians to Winchester, Saturday, when a monument to Pennsylvania soldiers who fell in the battles of Winchester was unveiled in the national cemetery. Confederate veterans mingled with men who wore the blue, and as each speaker paid tribute to both sides the cheers of the union and Confederate soldiers blended as one. The address of welcome, delivered by Robert T. Barton, former mayor of Winchester, was one of the features of the dedication. Gov. Stuart was the orator of the day.

Declaring that the republican party is owned, body and soul, by the dominant power represented by Speaker Cannon in the House and by a coterie of rich malefactors in the Senate, John W. Kern, the democratic candidate for the vice presidency, Saturday night opened his eastern speaking campaign before an enthusiastic audience at Westminister, Md. The controlling element of the republican party, he said, was stronger than that party and consideraly stronger even than Roosevelt. Roosevelt, he declared, has been unable to accomplish a single reform except by compromise with the dominant power.

Surrounded by gravestones, with the grave of the bride's father as the altar, a weird marriage ceremony took place Saturday at Fort Worth, Texas, when James O'Brien and Miss Mattie Clark were made man and wife in the German cemetery by a Methodist clergyman. Both bride and bridegroom are from Trinity, Texas, where the bridegroom, who is 40 years old, is a wealthy merchant, and the bride is heiress to a $10,000 estate. No other reason is given for the selection of such a strange wedding place other than that it was, a whim of the bride, who believed she was honoring the memory of her father by sodoing. Her father was a wealthy cattleman of west Texas. They left for Chicago and New York on a honeymoon trip.

Under the very eyes of her mistress, who suspected nothing, a clever servant girl, it is charged, walked out of the home of John E. Marsden, in West Philadelphia, Saturday, with an apron full of jewelry valued at $5,000. The girl came to Mrs. Marsden on Thursday and applied for a place as a servant. She gave her name as Mary Kelly. Mrs. Marsden engaged her and she began to work immediately. As Mrs. Marsden stood on the porch Saturday seeing her son off to school the girl, dressed in street attire, passed out of the house. Mrs. Marsden noticed the apron tied in a bundle under her arm and asked where she was going. She said she was going to post a letter. As time passed and the girl did not appear, Mrs. Marsden went upstairs and examined the safe, finding that all the jewelry was gone. There is no clue to the whereabouts of the girl.

Today's Telegraphic News

Big Fire in Chelsea.

Chelsea, Mass., Sept. 21.—The portion of Chelsea spared by the great conflagration of last winter is being swept this morning by another fire which now bids fair to rival the former one. Although the first alarm did not go in until 8:15, by 9 o'clock sixteen houses and a large box and show case factory had been destroyed by the flames which are absolutely beyond control. The fire broke out in the square bounded by Sixth and Vales streets, Everett avenue and the Boston and Maine Railroad, the police believe from incendiary origin.

The whole square was soon in flames with the fire threatening to jump Vales street, which is only twenty feet wide. The apparatus sent to fight the blaze was driven out by the heat. Bursting hose and the disabling of two engines so crippled the local department that the firemen sent in a general alarm and an appeal for aid to adjoining cities. Charleston and East Boston were the first outside departments to respond.

The big three story wooden structure of Atwood and McManus, box manufacturers' was the first to go, the 250 employees being obliged to flee for their lives. At 9:30 Kelly Brothers' shoe factory and Pope & Cottle's lumber yard were in flames and evidently due for destruction. The big factories of the Lee Brothers and Walton and Logan, adjoining the burning box factory, were in imminent danger.

The residents of the tenament district in the path of the flames are moving their household goods. All the telephone wires are down.

The firemen have succeeded in keeping the flames from crossing Vales street and Everett avenue and it is now spreading along the State Boulevard. Since last winter's conflagration left this thoroughfare practically bare of buildings, it is probable that the fire will soon be checked unless the wind changes.

A shift in the 25-mile wind which kept the flames away from the manufacturing district and swept them toward the area laid waste by the $8,000,000 fire of last winter, where there was nothing more to burn, saved Chelsea today from another conflagration which for two hours threatened to wipe what the former blaze had spared. But before the flames were under control they had devasted thirteen acres and caused about $1,000,000 damage.

Republicans Want Money.

New York, Sept. 21.—"Money, money," is the cry around republican headquarters and the lack of it is believed to be largely responsible for the late opening of the campaign in the east. If there should be a show down today it is probable that it would be found that the democratic national committee is better supplied with campaign cash than the republican committee. This remarkable situation is a complete reversal of conditions prevailing the last two presidential fights.

It is a fact that the business leaders and "captains of industry" who have heretofore cheerfully contributed their thousands to the republican cause are very slow in coming forward this year. Treasurer Geo. R. Sheldon confesses that he is considerably discouraged over the financial outlook, men who used to be relied upon for $500 contributions are now coming forward with checks for $50 or even smaller amounts. One reason for this is the enactment of the law prohibiting corporations from making campaign contributions. There is no question that the corporation are availing themselves of this excuse and are keeping in their own coffers the money which in former years they felt bound to contribute. There is a disposition in some quarters to blame Chairman Hitchcock for the scarcity of funds and for the resultant lack of campaign activity.

Albert Filley was hanged at Kingston, Mass., today for the murder of his wife, brother and baby a year ago.

Senator Foraker.

Cincinnati, Sept. 21.—Although self-eliminated from the campaign of Mr. Taft for president, Senator Foraker has not withdrawn his candidacy for re-election to the Senate. He will fight independent of party organization to succeed himself, and will offer a defense to the people of Ohio against the exposures of the Archbold letters. Foraker will launch his personal fight for re-election at once.

Foraker's stand has brought panic to the republic state leaders. They fear that with Foraker remaining openly in the fight for re-election, both the state and national tickets will also be in danger. Senator Dick who came here by request of Foraker failed to adjust the situation favorably to Foraker.

Foraker's first concession was when he sent to Wm. H. Taft a copy of a letter to John Hayes Hammond, withdrawing as presiding officer and a speaker at the convention of the national league of republican clubs to be held in Cincinnati tomorrow. Senator Crane had learned, though possibly not from Taft himself, that Foraker's presence at the convention would not be acceptable to the presidential candidate.

Foraker has sent formal notice to National Chairman Hitchcock and Ohio Chairman Williams, cancelling the speaking dates to which he had been assigned.

The attitude of Taft is apparently contained in his statement that:

"If it would make me all the votes in the country, I would not strike a man who is down."

Foraker is apparently to be left free of censure from the present head of the republican party. Neither Taft nor Vorys will break their policy of absolute silence on the Foraker sensation.

The Cholera.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—Premier M. Stolypin personally assumed charge of the cholera situation in the Russian capital today. His first act was to remove a number of incompetent officers and create new sanitary districts, each under the supervision of a doctor of recognized ability.

The premier has also ordered a restriction in the sale of all liquors. To meet the crying needs of the hospitals, the city has voted five hundred thousand roubles. Another appropriation will have to be made to clean up the city unless martial law is declared and the soldiers put to work.

Cholera has broken out in many jails and prisons in St. Petersburg and other affected cities and will probably result in the liberation of many prisoners. All attempts to minimize the extent of the disease have been abandoned. New cases are developing at the rate of four hundred a day and the percentage of deaths is steadily increasing.

Forest Fires.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 21.—Hundreds of people living in northern Wisconsin today are fighting the forest fires which destroyed the towns of Gagen and Woodboro yesterday and threaten to envelop the little town of Rhinelander.

The mayor of the latter town has asked the assistance of the Milwaukee fire department and today probably will ask Gov. Davidson to send a regiment of militia to take charge of the situation.

Refugees are crowding into Rhinelander from Woodboro and Gagen.

The fire is a new one and did not have its origin in the fires which recently devasted parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin. It started in the woods outside of Woodboro and spread like lightning. The inhabitants of Woodboro and Gagen fought the flames all day but in vain.

Rhinelander was temporarily saved by a sudden veering of the wind late last night.

Big Strike.

Manchester, England, Sept. 21.—All hope of avoiding a paralyzing strike in the cotton industry and all allied trades was abandoned today when 400 cotton mills closed down. The shut-down came as a result of the rejection by 130,000 cotton millemployes of the operative's proposal of a five per cent. cut in wages. Not only those 130,000 workmen are now on strike, but thousands in the allied trades are locked out by the order of trades unions. It is estimated that the total number who will be thrown out of employment as a result of the cotton worker's strike will reach 1,200,000 and that the world's production of cotton good will be cut in two.

Fire in Paris.

Paris, Sept. 21.—Paris is suffering untold inconveniences today as the result of the destruction of the main telephone exchange and the postoffice building in a fire that broke out last night.

Twenty-five thousand telephone lines were destroyed, affecting all the newspapers, banks, commercial houses and ministries. The loss from the fire will be $5,000,000 and another heavy loss will result from the interruption to business. Hundreds of men and boys and girls have been impressed into service as messengers. It will be at least a month before the telephone system can be restored. There was also an $800,000 fire yesterday in a department store in the Faubourg St. Denis.

Result of Carlessness.

Lisbon, Sept. 21.—Seven persons are dead at Nolita today and two score injured, as the result of carelessness on the part of an attendant at the bull fighting ring. The enclosure holding twenty-two bulls was thrown open by mistake and the maddened animals charged among the spectators. Soldiers killed ten of the bulls, the others escaping into the country.

Found on a Cliff.

London, Sept. 21.—An air of mystery surrounds the nature of the accident that befell Miss Violet Asquith, daughter of Premier Asquith, who after an all night search, was found by a searching party unconscious on the brink of a high cliff near Strains castle, in Scotland. The family would give out no statement today. Miss Asquith strolled out to the cliff Saturday but she did not return at night. Some say that the girl was attacked, others that she fell and injured herself and still others that she became unconscious from exhaustion.

Mr. Gould's lawyers oppose the application and obtained an adjournment until October 1.

That the request made upon the Shah by England and Russia for a renewal of the Persian constitution has met with an insolent refusal it was authoritatively learned today from the Foreign Office in London. Not until the Persian revolution is completely crushed, the Shah says in his answer, will he consider the question of giving his people a constitution, such as that granted the people of Turkey by the Sultan.

David B. Hill will support the democratic state and national tickets, was the statement Wm. J. Bryan made at Rochester, N. Y., today after a conference at "Wolfert Roost," last night. He declined to say whether Hill would take the stump. When asked the result of the conference with Judge Parker, Bryan replied: "He is supporting the ticket and will do so from the stump."

Five deaths will probably result from a battle fought near West Plains, Mo., between a sheriff's posse and John Roberts and his wife, mountaineers. For five hours the posse stormed the house, only capturing it, after both inmates had been fatally injured. Sheriff Mooney received wounds from which he died this morning and Max and John Lowery, deputy sheriffs, received wounds which will probably cause death. Roberts is accused of riding to the home of Abe Kessinger, a neighbor, Saturday night and shooting him.

Literary Boston Stirred.

Literary Boston was stirred today by the news that the long missing manuscript of "The Florentine Tragedy," the last play written by Oscar Wilde, has been found and is now in the hands of a local publishing house, being prepared for publication. "The Florentine Tragedy" is a typical Wilde production, dealing with the wife of a Florentine merchant who yields to the advances of the son of the Duke of Florence, but is afterward reconciled to her husband when the latter overcomes the lover in a duel.

Shortly after the arrival at Chicago of Senator Murray L. Crane of Massachusetts today for a conference with Chairman Hitchcock of the republican national committee, it became evident that instead of enacting the rule of a harmonizer, the "Pacifier," intends to open house in the Chicago headquarters. Many believe that one immediate result of Crane's visit will be the ousting of Senator Dixson from his place as chief of the western speakers' bureau. Following today's conference Hitchcock and Crane will go to Washington where they will meet the president and practically every big republican of the country.

New York Stock Market.

New York, Sept. 21.—Renewed weakness developed after the first few minutes of trading and prices were carried below the early low figures. The declining tendency was again checked in the late forenoon, prices of the leading issues moving up about one point from the previous low level, and for a time there was a show of moderate strength. But before midday the market was again heavy.

FORAKER ELIMINATED.

Senator J. B. Foraker in Cincinnati, on Saturday night, eliminated himself from participation with Judge Taft in the political rally of the National League of Republican Clubs, to be held there tomorrow. His action was made known to Judge Taft in the following letter addressed to the judge and made public by the senator Saturday night:

Cincinnati, O., September 19, 1908.

My Dear Judge: Having read in the newspapers that some of your friends, and possibly you, are in doubt as to the propriety of my speaking with you at Music Hall next Tuesday night, I have concluded not to attend the meeting. I take this action not because I deem the answers I have made to Mr. Hearst's charges insufficient nor because of any lack of loyalty to your cause, but only because I do not wish to do anything that might injure the cause or embarrass you personally. Very truly yours,

J. B. FORAKER.

DEATH OF MRS. WEBSTER.

As was stated in Saturday's Gazette, Mrs. Susan Webster fell while descending a stairway at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kate Pullman, in Fairfax county, on that day. Ignatius Stoutenburgh, a young man about 15 years of age, who was passing at the time on horseback, hurried to Alexandria and secured the services of a physician. On returning, as has been stated, at the corner of King and Columbus streets the animal slipped and fell upon him breaking his right leg above the ankle. The young man was attended by Drs. Gibson and Snowden, who reset the injured member. Dr. T. M. Jones, who attended Mrs. Webster, who was 60 years old, found that she had fallen on her head and had received a probable fracture of the skull. She never regained consciousness, and died about 10 o'clock Saturday night. Mrs. Webster had lived in Alexandria all her life. She leaves, besides her husband, former Chief Webster, who is attached to police headquarters, four children—William F. Webster, Mrs. Kate Pullman, Mrs. Cora Kelly and Mrs. Susie Deeton. Her funeral will take place from St. Mary's Church tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock. The pallbearers will be Messrs. Albert Schoeni, Henry Kelley, Martin Lawler, John Roberts, Richard Latham and Lieut. Jas. Smith.

POLICE COURT.

[Justice H. B. Caton presiding.]

The following cases were disposed of this morning:

Robert Bryant and Edward Lucas, both colored, charged with fighting, were fined $5 each.

Wiley Williams, suspected of stealing belting from John Minor, was turned over to the authorities of Alexandria county.

Annie Baker, colored, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was fined $5.

Alice Reddicks, colored, charged with selling beer without a license and with keeping a disorderly house, had her case continued until tomorrow.

Nine negroes, male and female, charged with disorderly conduct, were fined $5 each.

CAR DASHES FROM RAILS.

Trailer No. 107, attached to motor car No. 21, of the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon line, crowded with passengers, jumped the track at Fourteenth and B streets southwest about 8:25 o'clock yesterday morning, breaking a tree in the parking and snapping an electric light pole at Fourteenth and B streets. The car was in charge of Conductor O. W. Simpson, and Motorman S. T. Reed, both of this city. The car was northbound, having picked up numerous passengers from this city en route to Washington. Just before Fourteenth and B streets was reached the motorman applied the current, and the car jumped forward. The coupling pin between the trailer and the motor car snapped, causing the rear car to jump the rails. The accident caused quite a delay in travel but outside of the inconvenience no one was seriously hurt. Harold Grover, son of Mr. Richard Grover, of this city, had his hand lacerated, his injury being attended by Dr. W. M. Smith.

FELL IN THE STREET.

Arthur H. Pettit, a commercial salesman, who has rooms at the Braddock House, on north Fairfax street, became suddenly ill at the corner of Cameron and Royal streets, shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was removed to the Alexandria Hospital, by Officers Henderson and Sherwood. Last night his condition was thought to be critical. It is believed he is suffering from acute kidney trouble.

Later information from the hospital this morning report him as being on the road to recovery.

TEN NEGROES ARRESTED.

About 2 o'clock yesterday morning Officers Bell, Henderson and Garvey made a descent upon a house conducted by Alice Reddicks, colored, in the northeastern section of the city. The woman was put under arrest on the charge of selling lager beer without a license, and nine negroes—five male and four females—were also taken in custody on a charge of disorderly conduct. The prisoners were brought before the Police Court this morning. The proprietress of the house had her case continued until tomorrow, and the darkeys found in the resort were fined $5 each.

A GOOD SHOW.

The Frank A. Robbins shows arrived in town this morning and pitched their tents in the park lot on Broad street. This morning they gave a fine free exhibition at the grounds and they promise a similar one before the big performance this evening. It is presumed that a quantity of business has accumulated during the summer recess and will be brought to the attention of the body. Considerable improvements have been going on during the interim and it is anticipated that additional appropriations will be asked for to continue same.

DEATH IN OHIO.

TRIED CONCLUSIONS.

The Augusta, owned by Admiral Calmes, yesterday tried conclusions with some of the fastest power boats on the river among them the Fairbanks, the Black Arrow and the Tarvola, one of the handsomest yatchts on the river, and came out victorious over the fleet. The prettiest race was between the Augusta and the Tarvola, owned by a prominent lawyer of Washington. The race was from this city to Fort Foote.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Warrenton Rifles has elected Corporal Llewllyn Wood second lieutenant, to succeed Lieut. W. H. Blythe, resigned.

The Inter Parlimentary Union closed at Berlin Saturday with a garden party at the home of Prince von Bulow. The next meeting of the union will be held in Rome in 1911. The proposal for a permanent bureau at The Hague was referred to the council of the Inter Parliamentary Union for its decision. Owing to the activity of the political campaign in America the eight representatives from America will shortly leave for their homes.

The other half of the $500 gold note sent by an unknown person to the conscience fund of the government recently was received Friday by acting Secretary Reynolds, of the Treasury Department, from Collector of Customs Fowler, at New York. This half of the note was accompanied by a typewritten statement to the effect that the other half of the note had been sent to the secretary of the treasury. The writer added that the money was from a contributor with a New England conscience tinctured with Yankee caution. The money has been deposited to the credit of the conscience fund.

Attempts to settle the estate of John F. Wollensak, a wealthy hardware merchant, of Chicago but for years believed to be dead, have resulted in the discovery that he is alive and has amassed another fortune in a small town in California, where he has lived, keeping his identity secret from his relatives and friends. Proceedings in the probate court had progressed almost to the point of having Wollensak declared legally dead when he was found alive and well although enfeebled by age, in the western town. Eight years ago Wollensak left his office at Canal and Washington streets and disappeared without leaving a trace of his whereabouts. His wife and children mourned him as dead, although the mystery of his departure was not solved.

Henry A. Engelke, whose suit against Griffith Scott, a millionaire brick manufacturer of Haverstraw, N. Y., a year ago, for the alienation of the affections of his wife, a former member of the Florodora Comic Opera Company, attracted wide attention, is in the Nyack Hospital in a serious condition with a bullet wound in his head. He has not regained consciousness and the coroner has little hope of getting an ante-mortem statement from him. The shooting occurred at Congers, Thursday night during an altercation between Engelke and Henry F. Schroeder, who was his partner in an inn at Rockland Lake, and the latter was arrested later, charged with the deed. The quarrel between the two men was the culmination of business disagreements extending over a period of several weeks.

Wilbur Wright announced at Le Mans, France, Saturday that he would resume his aeroplane flights Monday. He will experiment with a sack of sand.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers are small pills, easy to take, gentle and sure. Sold by W. E. Creighton & Co.

Low Week-End Round Trip Fares.

Continuing each Saturday and Sunday to and including October 4, the Southern Railway announces the sale of low rate week-end tickets for the round trip, Washington and Alexandria to Somerset, Warrenton, Harrisonburg, Bluemont and intermediate points, and from these stations to Alexandria and Washington, limited returning until Monday following date of sale.
